CURRENT STATE

What the page already has

The existing page is well-structured and on-brand. The problem is not design — it is content depth. The current page tells people what inyo is but does not give them a compelling reason to believe it is better than what already exists. Here is what is there now:

| Section                     | What it does                                              | What's missing                                             |
|-----------------------------|-----------------------------------------------------------|------------------------------------------------------------|
| Hero                 | Animated word swap. Tagline. Email form. Wall of urgency. | No data. No reason to believe.                             |
| Philosophy card      | Dating apps made it lonelier. No swiping, no b            | Specifc, competitor callouts. Real stats.                  |
| Step 01 — Onboarding | 15 questions, voice notes, photos.                        | Why voice notes are better than text profiles.             |
| Step 02 — Matching   | AI scores across 5 dimensions. 93% ring.                  | What those dimensions are. Why it matters.                 |
| Step 03 — The moment | A text. Photo, reason, yes or no.                         | Show the tier system. Name it.                             |
| CTA card             | Korean ■■ reference. Email form again.                    | Underdeveloped. The origin story deserves its own section. |
| Footer               | NYC only. Copyright.                                      | No links, no legal, no trust signals.                      |

The core gap: the current page is a product description. It needs to become a persuasion page. Every section below is a specific lever that converts skeptics.

SECTION 01 · CRITICAL

Stats shock block

WHERE IT GOES

Immediately below the hero, before the philosophy card. This is the first thing a visitor sees after the CTA. It needs to validate the problem before you explain the solution.

PURPOSE

Make the visitor feel seen. They already know dating apps are broken. Show them that the data confirms what they lived through. This creates immediate resonance and positions inyo as the rational response to a documented problem.

THE STATS TO USE

| Stat                                         | Number       | Source                        |
|----------------------------------------------|--------------|-------------------------------|
| Gen Z dating app burnout                     | 79%          | Forbes Health, July 2025      |
| Dating apps deleted within 1 month           | 69%          | AppsFlyer, 2025               |
| Match Group stock lost over 5 years          | -70%         | Fortune, March 2025           |
| Users who felt emotionally exhausted         | 78%          | Forbes Health / OnePoll, 2024 |
| Top burnout cause: can't find a connection   | 40%          | Forbes Health / OnePoll, 2024 |
| Hinge Most Compatible ignored dealbreakers   | See Reddit   | r/hingeapp user reports       |
| Match Group CEO called apps 'a numbers game' | Direct quote | Fortune, March 14, 2025       |

SUGGESTED HERO QUOTE CARD

"Too often, our apps have felt like a numbers game rather than a place to build real connections."

— Spencer Rascoff, CEO Match Group (Hinge + Tinder) · March 2025

This is the most powerful asset on the page. The CEO of the company that owns Hinge and Tinder said this publicly. It validates inyo's entire thesis without inyo having to say it.

COPY DIRECTION

Display 3-4 stats as large numbers in a horizontal strip or bento card. Keep labels minimal — the numbers do the work. Under the stats, drop the CEO quote in an italicized card with clear attribution. End with a one-liner in brand voice:

"people aren't tired of dating. they're tired of the apps."

Competitor callout

WHERE IT GOES

After the philosophy card, before the steps. Position it as 'why everything else falls short' — not an attack, a clear-eyed comparison.

PURPOSE

Visitors who land on inyo have likely used Hinge, Tinder, or heard of Ditto. Address their objections pre-emptively. Show exactly how inyo is structurally different — not just in UX but in business model and incentive structure.

REAL USER QUOTES TO USE (from Reddit — treat as qualitative, not statistical)

"99% of my most compatibles are a joke. I don't want kids, yet all the guys I'm supposedly most compatible with want them."

— r/hingeapp · Hinge Most Compatible thread

"It keeps recommending my cousin's socially awkward friend who I keep X'ing over and over. It insists we are the most compatible."

— r/hingeapp · user Steel_HoneyBadger

"My most compatible always seems to be at the opposite end of the country to me."

— r/hingeapp · anonymous

"Do NOTTTTT use Ditto."

— Reddit · Ditto thread

"I tried Ditto and didn't hear back. So that's ruled out."

— r/UCSD · anonymous310506

"At this point I'm not even looking for a girlfriend. I just want someone who can hold a conversation longer than 3 messages."

— Reddit · anonymous

COMPARISON TABLE COPY

| Feature              | inyo | Hinge | Ditto           | Sitch             |
|----------------------|------|-------|-----------------|-------------------|
| No app needed        | yes  | no    | iMessage only   | no — app required |

| Adult NYC market               | yes | yes            | no — college only | yes — but broken* |
| Algorithm ignores dealbreakers | no  | documented yes | unknown           | documented yes    |
| Private profile                | yes | no — public    | no                | no                |

*Sitch has $7M in funding and 10,000 profiles in NYC but App Store reviews (2025–2026) document a broken AI that forgets preferences, thin male user base, and zero setups for many paying users.

SECTION 03 · HIGH PRIORITY

Compatibility tier system visual

WHERE IT GOES

Within or immediately after the Step 02 matching card. The tier system is one of the strongest differentiators — it is honest in a way no other product is. It deserves its own visual moment.

PURPOSE

Signal radical transparency. Most apps pretend every match is great. inyo shows a score, names a tier, and tells you when it is a long shot. This is disarming and builds trust faster than any marketing copy.

THE THREE TIERS — EXACT COPY

| Tier   | Range   | Label        | Copy for the page                                                                                  |
|--------|---------|--------------|----------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|
| GREEN  | 80–100% | Strong Match | High alignment across physical attraction, personality, lifestyle, location, and emotional availab |
| YELLOW | 31–79%  | Promising    | Something real connects you — a shared vibe, similar type, aligned lifestyle. not every dimens     |
| RED    | 0–30%   | Long Shot    | A stretch — always framed honestly. sent only when it's the best available option. we always t     |

IMPORTANT: The tier system only works if it feels honest, not clinical. The copy should be lowercase and warm — not a clinical scale. The red tier is not a rejection. It is inyo being upfront.

SCORING DIMENSIONS (for the Step 02 card expansion)

- Physical alignment — photo analysis + stated preferences
- Personality fit — MBTI compatibility (25% weight)
- Lifestyle match — ideal Saturday, energy level, social habits (25% weight)
- Love language alignment — how each person gives and receives affection (20% weight)
- Values and dealbreakers — non-negotiables as absolute vetoes (15% weight)
- Physical attraction signals — photo + preference cross-reference (15% weight)
- Emotional availability — detected from voice note tone and language depth (modifier)
- Life stage and context — just moved, busy schedule, post-breakup (modifier)

SECTION 04 · HIGH PRIORITY

Real voices / social proof

WHERE IT GOES

Between the competitor callout and the steps. Also can repeat a single powerful quote inside the CTA card at the bottom.

PURPOSE

Nothing converts like recognition. When a visitor reads a quote from someone describing exactly their own experience, the emotional barrier to signing up drops significantly. These quotes do not need to be about inyo — they just need to be true.

NOTE ON REDDIT SOURCING

These are real Reddit users. Treat them as qualitative signal — emotionally valid, directionally accurate, not statistically representative. Do not attribute usernames. Use them as anonymous voice-of-customer. If desired, paraphrase them slightly to clean up grammar while preserving the sentiment.

QUOTES TO USE ON THE PAGE

"At this point I'm not even looking for a girlfriend anymore. I'm just looking for someone who can hold a conversation longer than 3 messages."

— anonymous · Reddit · dating thread

"I don't get no likes at all. And no conversations. Just ghost mid convo."

— anonymous · Reddit · online dating thread

"99% of my most compatibles are a joke. I don't want kids, yet all the guys I'm supposedly most compatible with want them."

— anonymous · Reddit · r/hingeapp

"I tried Ditto and didn't hear back from them. So that's ruled out."

— anonymous · Reddit · r/UCSD

"My most compatible always seems to be at the opposite end of the country to me."

— anonymous · Reddit · r/hingeapp

PRESENTATION FORMAT SUGGESTION

Display as a horizontal scrolling strip or stacked cards with subtle background treatment. Keep them anonymous ('— nyc dater', 'reddit user'). The specificity of the emotion is what makes them land, not the attribution.

SECTION 05 · HIGH PRIORITY

Private profile explainer

---

WHERE IT GOES

Inside the Step 01 card expansion, or as a standalone small card below Step 01. Could also live as a reassurance line directly on the form before the submit button.

PURPOSE

One of the underdocumented reasons people do not give honest answers on dating app profiles is that the profile is public. Anyone can find you. A coworker, an ex, a friend. People calibrate their answers to a known audience, which means the data going into the algorithm is already compromised. inyo is the only platform where this is structurally solved.

THE COPY BLOCK

- Your profile is completely private.
- Nobody can search for you. Nobody can find you.
- Your voice notes, your preferences, your dealbreakers — none of it is visible to anyone except the matching engine.
- The more honest you are, the better your matches get.
- This is not a public profile. It is a private conversation with us.

THE SOCIAL MEDIA EXPOSURE PROBLEM (context for copy)

Gen Z specifically fears the trend of people screenshotting dating profiles and posting them to TikTok or IG to mock the sender. This happens enough that it has become a documented deterrent to authentic self-presentation. The private SMS model eliminates this vector entirely. Mention it — it will resonate.

SUGGESTED CARD HEADLINE

"your profile is never public. be as honest as you want."

SECTION 06 · MEDIUM PRIORITY

Anti-ghost system

WHERE IT GOES

As a feature callout inside the How It Works section, specifically around Step 04 (the mutual YES and number exchange). Also a strong standalone bento card.

PURPOSE

Ghosting is the single most documented emotional harm from dating apps — more reported than rejection itself. It activates self-doubt, creates ambiguous endings the brain cannot process, and leaves people in emotional limbo. inyo's anti-ghost system is a clinical intervention disguised as a product feature.

HOW IT WORKS (for the page)

- Both people say YES. We share numbers and start a group intro.
- If someone says YES but does not text within 24 hours, we send them a second icebreaker to help them start.
- After 48 hours with no movement from either side, we close the intro gracefully.
- The other person is never left wondering. No silent rejection. A clean end.

SUGGESTED COPY

"if someone says yes but ghosts the intro, we follow up with another way to start. after 48 hours, we let it go — so neither of you is left wondering."

This is clinically significant. Ghosting damages trust and trains anxious attachment patterns. The anti-ghost system is not a courtesy feature — it is inyo taking responsibility for the emotional health of the introduction.

SECTION 07 · MEDIUM PRIORITY

Korean origin story — expanded

WHERE IT GOES

The current page has a one-line reference in the CTA card. This should be expanded into its own moment — either as a full bento card or as the emotional anchor of the final CTA section before sign-up.

PURPOSE

The name origin is not just branding — it is the philosophical core of the product. A fatalistic view of connection is genuinely comforting to a generation burned out on manufactured choice. The idea that the right person was always coming takes the pressure off the process.

■■■ (inyon)

In Korean culture, ■■■ (inyon) is the belief that if two people cross paths, it was always meant to happen. not random. not algorithmic. meant.

inyo is built on this idea. we are not trying to manufacture a connection. we are trying to make sure the one that was already coming finds its way to you.

VISUAL DIRECTION

The thread-of-fate logo mark — the S-curve connecting two dots — is the visual representation of this idea. Use it prominently in this section. The gold thread connecting two people is the design language for the whole brand.

SECTION 08 · MEDIUM PRIORITY

FAQ section

WHERE IT GOES

Near the bottom of the page, before the final CTA. Collapsible accordion works well here. Use the brand voice — lowercase, direct, honest.

Q: is this free?

yes — completely free during our launch period. when we move to a paid model, you'll hear from us first and have time to decide.

Q: how many matches will I get?

we don't guarantee a number. when we find someone who genuinely fits, we'll text you. that might be once a week or once a month. the quality is the point, not the volume.

Q: do i have to download anything?

no. nothing. we text you. you reply. that's the whole product.

Q: what if i'm not interested in my match?

just ignore the text. no unmatching, no rejections, no awkward buttons. the next match comes when we find one.

Q: is my information private?

yes. your profile is never public. nobody can search for you or find you. your photos, voice notes, and preferences exist only inside the matching engine.

Q: what is the matching based on?

mbti compatibility, love languages, lifestyle, values, physical alignment, and emotional availability — all analyzed from your voice notes, photos, and intake answers. we score every pair across six dimensions before sending anything.

Q: what if i want to delete my data?

text DELETE to our number at any time. we wipe everything — profile, photos, match history — within 30 days and send you a confirmation.

Q: is this only for straight people?

no. inyo is for everyone. you tell us who you're looking for and we match accordingly.

Q: what is the green/yellow/red tier?

our compatibility scoring system. green (80–100%) is a strong match. yellow (31–79%) is promising. red (0–30%) is a long shot — we'll always tell you when it is. we'd rather be honest than oversell it.

Q: why NYC only?

we're starting where the problem is most acute and the density supports it. more cities are coming.

SECTION 09 · MEDIUM PRIORITY

Safety & trust section

WHERE IT GOES

As a small but visible bento card — not prominent enough to feel fear-inducing, but visible enough to signal maturity. Can sit alongside the FAQ or near the footer.

ID verified — every user confirms identity via government ID before their profile is activated.

contact blocking — sync your contacts and we will never match you with someone you already know — no ex, no coworker, no roommate.

post-intro responsibility — once we make the introduction, the conversation is yours. exercise your own judgment. stay safe. trust your instincts.

report by text — if anything feels wrong after an intro, reply REPORT to any message. we review everything.

auto-suspension — two reports trigger an automatic account suspension pending review.

SUGGESTED SECTION HEADLINE

"we take the intro seriously. the rest is yours."

SECTION 10 · LOW PRIORITY

Phone number CTA upgrade

CURRENT STATE

The form currently collects email addresses. This is fine for a pre-launch list but suboptimal for inyo's model, because the phone number is the actual product — it is what receives matches. An email address is a placeholder.

RECOMMENDATION

- Primary CTA: phone number field labeled 'your number — we'll text you when we find your person'
- Secondary option: email field for people not ready to give a number yet — 'not ready? get updates instead'
- Add an explicit consent checkbox directly next to the phone field per TCPA requirements
- Phone signups = high intent users. Email signups = warm leads to convert later.
- Cost: Twilio charges ~$0.008 per SMS. At 1,000 users that is $8 per send — still negligible.

COUNTER UPGRADE

Change '150 / 1,000' to show city-specific progress: 'nyc waitlist: 150 / 1,000'. This makes it feel local and urgent. Consider adding a pulsing dot or 'filling fast' micro-copy if the count exceeds 500.
